Furthermore, the survey found that around 42% of restaurant businesses that did not receive RRF grants are at risk of bankruptcy. The figure drops to 20% for those who received the grant.

IRC executive director Erika Polmar said: "The Omicron surge has pushed many restaurants to the brink, especially those still waiting for RRF grants."

Coronavirus Update

Statewide, according to the DSHS there were 54,407 new and 13,861 probable new cases on January 17th, along with 4 deaths. There were also 12,286 Texans in the hospital with Covid-19. We were unable to locate the local numbers for coronavirus cases.

Beto's Campaign

(Texas Tribune) Democratic candidate Beto O'Rourke raised over $7.2 million in the first month and a half of his campaign for governor, according to his campaign.

The money came from more than 115,600 contributions made over 46 days — Nov. 15 through Dec. 31 — (cont'd on back)

Restaurant Sales Down

A new survey has found that a majority of the independent restaurants in the US recorded a drop in sales in December 2021, following a surge in Covid-19 cases driven by the Omicron variant.

The survey is based on data collected by the Independent Restaurant Coalition (IRC) from nearly 1,200 member restaurants and bars across 50 states, including those that did not receive restaurant revitalization fund (RRF) grants.

According to the survey results, around 58% of the businesses reported that sales went down by more than half in December 2021.

Around 46% of the businesses also had to trim their operating hours for more than ten days last month, the data showed.

The Blotter

The Lampasas Police Dept. Blotter for Monday shows a report of lost property in the 1600 block of 281S. at 1:56pm.

The Lampasas County Sheriff's Dept. Blotter for Monday shows Lometa with a livestock issue and a medical call. Kempner shows a fish & game call, civil matters, a reported disturbance, a requested welfare check, medical calls and a reported theft. Out in the county there were medical calls, a reported harassment, civil matters, a suicidal person, animal issues, a reported theft and reported disturbances. Deputies went into Cove on a requested welfare check, medical calls and reported disturbances.

The Burn Ban is in Effect

the campaign said. It touted that “no Democratic campaign in the state’s history has raised more money during the opening days of their race.” Eighty percent of the money was raised online, campaign officials said.

The campaign revealed the figures Tuesday morning, hours before the deadline to report them to the Texas Ethics Commission. Candidates are required to disclose their fundraising for the last six months of 2021. The latest fundraising number includes $2 million that his campaign said O'Rourke collected within 24 hours of announcing his run.

O'Rourke is going up against a fundraising juggernaut in GOP Gov. Greg Abbott, who had $55 million saved up for his reelection campaign at the end of June. O'Rourke, meanwhile, is starting his fundraising from scratch, but his reputation precedes him: He proved a fundraising phenom during his 2018 run against Sen. Ted Cruz when he raised more than $80 million.

Abbott's campaign has not announced yet how much money he will report raising over the six-month period. However, his campaign already reported raising $9.5 million on a series of reports that were due around the three, roughly month-long special legislative sessions that occurred during the half-year period.

Both O'Rourke and Abbott have to get through March primaries before they can face one another in November. O'Rourke faces little serious competition, while Abbott has a group of challengers including former state Sen. Don Huffines of Dallas and former Texas GOP Chairman Allen West.

Huffines announced Monday that he has “raised” $12 million since launching his bid in May, suggesting he’ll report roughly $3 million in donations for the latest six-month period. However, his campaign did not volunteer any details about whether his next report will reflect any self-funding, which made up more than half the $9.1 million he touted as his fundraising on the last six-month report, which went through June.
