The Texas House Gives Approval

A handful of bills that are aimed at preventing another massive power failure were approved. When the February winter storm hit utility companies complied with orders to shut off power to large parts of the state, which cut off electricity to natural gas services. This prevented the facilities from delivering fuel to power plants, intensify the shortage of electricity. A committee will be created by the House Bill 14 that will designate priority to the electricity services when extreme weather needs occur. House Bill 3648 would require state agencies to adopt rules designating certain gas entities and facilities as critical during an energy emergency.
