Today is Earth Day 2021

Earth Day began in 1969, as residents responded to a massive oil spill near Santa Barbara, California. This is the 51st Earth Day.

Today, according to Earthday.org President Kathleen Rogers, "climate change has become one of the central issues of the environmental movement, and climate and environmental literacy is important".

"Combined with civic education, climate and environmental literacy will create jobs, and build a green consumer market as meaningful ways to solve climate change," Rogers said.

Journalstar.com offers the following statistics in the US: 279 Businesses use wind electric power generation; 1,107 Businesses use hydroelectric power generation; 63 Businesses use geothermal electric power generation; 106 Businesses use solar electric power generation industry; $9.8 billion is the total revenue for electric power generation industries that use renewable energy; 17%-the percent of U.S. renewable electric power generation in 2018; 611,000 employees work in zero-emission technology industries. And about our trash...

Today's average American generates about 4.5 pounds of trash per day, compared to 2.68 pounds in 1960. In 2018, 292.4 million tons of waste were generated in the U.S. About 69 million tons were recycled and 25 million tons were composted.

Earth Day gives us every year a chance to talk about, think about and share our ideas.

A Visit with the Lampasas City Manager

Lampasas City Manager Finley de Graffenried was in the Lampasas Radio studios Wednesday morning for his weekly visit with Ronnie Witcher.

Mr. de Graffenried began the conversation with an apology to the residents near the construction on W. 3rd St. He acknowledged the inconvenience, and asked for patience. He also spoke again about the need for employees for the city pools. He understands everyone is looking for help, and encouraged anyone interested in lifeguarding should get an application at City Hall, and the city will provide training.

When asked about the capital improvement projects that would get underway for the rest of this year, or the next fiscal year, the City Manager said they hope to get E. 3rd St. from Key Ave to Live Oak St. redone, and maybe some chip seal and maintenance on the roads. It was also mentioned about the engineering reports being done for the Skate Park and Pavillion at Campbell Park.

It was pointed out that almost all the new businesses in Lampasas are being built on Key Ave., (cont'd on back)

The Blotter

The Lampasas Police blotter for Wednesday shows a burglary of motor vehicle report in the 600 block of S. Walnut at 9:20am, and then a reported harassment took place in the 100 block of W. 5th St. at 10:51am. The afternoon shows a minor accident took place at the intersection of E. 1st St. and S. Chestnut St. at 3:42pm. The evening shows the arrest of Blas Gonzales III, 27, of Lampasas in the 100 block of EE Ohnmeiss Dr. at 11:04pm for 3 Lampasas Municipal Warrants; no drivers license, speeding, and failure to appear.

Lampasas Sheriff's Dept. Blotter for Wednesday shows Lometa with a reported fraud and a medical call. In Kempner there were livestock/animal issues, a civil matter, reported threats, a noise complaint and a reported trespassing. Out in the county there were medical calls, a reported fraud, civil matters and an accident. Deputies went into Cove on a medical call.

The Burn Ban has been lifted until May 7th.

and none seem to be setting up shop on the Courtyard Square/ Downtown area. Key Ave. has an average of 20,000 cars a day, while downtown does not have that much traffic. (We have to mention, though, what a huge success the farmers/craft market on Saturdays has become). Mr. de Graffenried shared that they have spoken to some of the new property owners about ideas to create an environment that is good for retail businesses. As he said, they need people with vision and capital. Many of the downtown buildings are not up to code, but the city has a Life Safety Grant, which can be used to bring older buildings up to code. Call City Hall with any questions.
