*The bill gives the education commissioner more control and removes all State Board of Education involvement in the state assessment program.

Dr. Rascoe, Superintendent Lampasas ISD states that "It is critical that citizens are able to have a voice on this issue and not be excluded from this process. To give you the opportunity to have a voice, even though the committee will not accept open testimony, below is information on registering your position. You do not need to go to the Capitol. You can just click on the link below, select SB8 and in the body of the text state your position – if you are for or against school vouchers – and why.

Be sure to note in the body of the electronic form your position to the measure. You can register your position anytime between now and Monday morning.

Texas Senate Bill 8

(The Texas School Voucher Program)

The Texas House Education Committee this week postponed voting on Senate Bill 8, which would create an expensive education savings account (ESA) voucher program that would hurt our public schools. But now, the committee has set a meeting for Monday, May 15, and public testimony is not being allowed.

This bill is bad for Texas students and parents:

* It would cost Texas big time. This bill would create an education savings account program that would give between $7,500 and $10,500 in state tax money to subsidize private school tuition for individuals receiving special education services, who are educationally disadvantaged, or who are attending public schools and have 504s, are in D- or F-rated campuses, or have siblings in the ESA program. That could be more than 75% of students in Texas.

*The bill requires more state tests. Proponents say that it eliminates STAAR, but in truth, it adds two tests every year for each grade in grades 3-8 and increases high school exams from five to six.

Meteorite Lands in Home in New Jersey

Earlier this week, police in New Jersey reported that an object suspected to be a meteorite crashed through the ceiling of a home, landing on a hardwood floor in the kitchen.

A story from Scripps news tells us that after analysis by researchers in New Jersey, it has been determined to be an actual meteorite. The College of New Jersey joined other researchers in making the determination.

Nathan Magee, chair of the school's physics department, told the Associated Press. "We are excited to be able to confirm that the object is a true chondrite meteorite, in excellent condition, and one of a very small number of similar witnessed chondrite falls known to science."

According to the Natural History Museum in the U.K., these types of meteorites are up to about 4.5 billion years old and are leftovers from the formation of the Solar System. The Natural History Museum said these rocks are made out of droplets of silicate minerals mixed with small grains of sulphides and iron-nickel metal.
