The Blotter

Lampasas Police Dept. blotter for Thursday afternoon shows Suspicious Activity reported in the 600 block of S. Key Ave. at 3:12pm, a minor accident reported in the 700 block of S. Key Ave. at 6:59pm, and a shots fired call in the 100 block of Sunrise Hills at 9:57pm.

Lampasas Sheriff's Dept. Blotter shows Lometa with a livestock issue, a requested welfare check and reports of suspicious activity. In Kempner there was a request for extra patrol, reports of suspicious activity, and livestock issues. Out in the county there were medical calls, a warrant was served, a mental health call, reported disturbances, animal issues, an alarm call and shots fired calls. Deputies went into Cove on an identity theft call.

The Jail Log shows the arrest of Steven Hall, 35, of Adamsville for assault on a family member. Christopher Stone, 24, of Lampasas was detained for failure to appear.

Coronavirus Update

According to a story on NBC news, confirmed coronavirus cases in the United States have fallen to levels not seen since March 2020, according to an NBC News analysis — and experts say they expect case counts to stay low through the summer.

Cases first surged in March last year, driven by a wave in New York City. That first surge peaked in April, then gradually decreased to a seven-day average of 19,000 cases June 1, 2020 — and would not fall below that threshold for the next year. On Wednesday, the seven-day average was 16,860, the lowest since March 29, 2020.

By last June, many governors had lifted the restrictions they had imposed in the spring, confident that the rest of the country would not see a surge like the one experienced in the Northeast. That was not the case: Infections surged across the South and the West last summer, and the U.S. had its most devastating surge in the winter, with daily cases exceeding 300,000 at the peak.

The winter surge has now receded, and as the calendar turns to June, the country is once again reopening. But the pandemic has changed drastically in the intervening 12 months. Thanks to vaccinations, experts say, the U.S. is unlikely to see a summer surge on a scale similar to last year.

Certain states, like Texas, have more “patchy” vaccination uptake, with certain areas of the state having significantly higher vaccination rates than others. In these low vaccination areas, there will continue to be a risk for outbreak. Locally, Lampasas County has 37.3% of residents 12 and older vaccinated with 30.7% of that age group fully vaccinated. For the older residents, 68.9% have had one dose, with 58.3% being fully vaccinated.

The big test will come in the fall, when the weather cools and people start to gather indoors, noted, any fall or winter uptick won't be like the surge the nation saw last winter, because the vaccines have proven to be very effective in preventing severe disease. That means an increase in cases won't necessarily lead to a large increase in hospitalizations seen in previous surges, he said.

What ultimately happens in the fall, Beyrer said, is up to the American people.
