The Blotter

The Lampasas Police Dept. Blotter for Friday shows a reported theft in the 100 block of E. 3rd St. at 1:59am, and a public intoxication was reported in the 800 block of S. Key Ave at 9:19am. The afternoon shows suspicious activity reported in the 400 block of CTE at 12:23pm, a forgery was reported in the 500 block of E. 3rd St. at 2:13pm. At 7:15pm, Christon Beamon, 41, of Moultrie Georgia was arrested in the 500 block of S. Live Oak St. on a Lampasas County Warrant (bond surrender-theft from person). At 9:47pm James Akana, 55, was arrested in the 1000 block of Mill St. for interfering with public duties, assault of a family member-impeding circulation/breath and possession of a controlled substance PG1 less than a gram.

County Sheriff's Dept. Blotter for Friday shows Lometa with a medical call. In Kempner there was an alarm call, a reported stolen vehicle, and an accident. Out in the county there were animal/livestock issues, reported thefts, and reports of suspicious activity. Deputies went into Cove on reports of suspicious activity, medical calls, a report of an abandoned vehicle, and a reported trespassing.

The Jail Log shows the arrest of 30 year old Kayla Bench on a bond revocation. Also arrested were: 29 year old Spencer Hahn of Kempner for criminal trespass, 45 year old Christopher Henderson of Copperas Cove for driving with no license, Natalie Jayroe, 26, of Burnet on a bond revocation, Miguel Perez, 35, on a bond revocation and 20 year old Noah Joy was booked in on a commitment charge.

Mann says ranchers are used to bringing cows in that weigh 500 to 600 pounds, but now they are bringing them in at 300 pounds. He says we will see the effect from this in the fall. "In the fall it's going to be, looks like to me a lot less cattle coming to town simply because they're coming early," Mann said.

Show cattle rancher, Matt Woodley, says a lot of the cows are also losing weight because of the heat.

"They're shrinking simply due to stress and so that shrink is the loss of weight and pounds and that's costing the producer money when they're losing weight," Woodley said. He says this stress is something that will affect us beyond this season.

"An inch and a half of rain since last September that's what, seven, eight months," Mann said. "An inch and a half of rain, that's not good."

So, ranchers are having to buy more feed but those prices are up, raising prices all the way to the consumer at the grocery store.

"You, when you go to the grocery store you're going to give more for steaks, you're going to give more for a gallon of milk, you're going to give more for a loaf of bread," Mann said.

Woodley says it's always a debate for him on what the best course of action is.

"Maybe it's going to rain and maybe we can extend this, the reality of it is it costs you more money every single day that you have them," Woodley said. "So, a lot of times you have to make that hard decision that it's going to save you money to sell her today versus 30 days from now."

Mann says this isn't changing anytime soon. He says farmers aren't going to have as much feed to sell to the ranchers next year because of the drought. Thus, making it where you can expect meat prices to stay up for awhile

Fire In Blanco County

The Texas A & M Forest Service is responding to a large fire in Blanco County. The Archer fire is an estimated 450 acres and is 20% contained as of 5:40 this morning. The fire is northwest of Round Mountain south of Hwy 71.

Drought Brings Higher Prices for Groceries

A story from KCBD up in Lubbock tells us that more ranchers are having to sell their cattle earlier this year because of a drought that is making it more expensive to feed them.

Owner of the Lubbock Stockyards, Tony Mann, says most ranchers are having to bring calves in sooner, meaning the calves are smaller than usual and bringing in less money.

"They're bringing them in a lot earlier and a lot smaller because of the drought," Mann said. "They're just trying to thin everything down where they can keep part of them anyway."
