Special Legislative Session

(Texas Tribune) On Tuesday, Abbott quickly called a second special legislative session with only one item on the agenda: property tax relief. The session began Tuesday afternoon, though neither chamber was expected to meet before Wednesday, giving lawmakers 30 days to reach a deal on how to use a significant chunk of a record $32.7 billion budget surplus to help lower property tax bills.

The main dividing line between Texas Republicans on how to dole out $12.3 billion in new property tax cuts has been between a proposal that would benefit homeowners and businesses — backed by Abbott and House Speaker Dade Phelan — and one sought by Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick to give greater relief to homeowners.

The tax-cut method Abbott and Phelan favor would take all $12.3 billion and send it to school districts so (cont'd on back)

A suspicious vehicle was reported in the 800 block of E. 4th St. at 4:46pm, there was a noise complaint in the 1400 block of W. 4th St. at 6:23pm and a harassment was reported in the 700 block of S. Key Ave. at 7:30pm. At that same location, Donald Byrd, 34, of Austin was arrested for criminal trespass, resisting arrest and unlawful carrying of a weapon at 8:42pm. Suspicious activity was reported in the 1200 block of E. Ave G at 11:44pm.

The Lampasas County Sheriff's Dept. Blotter for Wednesday shows Kempner with civil matters, medical calls and animal issues. Out in the county there were civil matters, animal issues and a warrant was served.

(cont'd from front) they can lower their tax rates — which lawmakers routinely call “tax rate compression.” School districts’ property taxes make up the biggest chunk of a property tax bill. All Texas landowners would see a trim in their tax bills under the Abbott-Phelan proposal, though businesses and wealthier homeowners would see a greater benefit.

Patrick and Senate tax-cut warriors have pushed a package that includes relief specifically for homeowners. Under their proposal, more than two-thirds of the $12.3 billion would still go toward compression. But Patrick also wants 30% to go toward a boost in the state’s homestead exemption for school district taxes, or the amount of a home’s value that can’t be taxed to pay for public schools. Patrick wants to raise the exemption from $40,000 to $100,000.

“Unless and until the House and Senate agree on a different proposal to provide property tax cuts, I will continue to call for lasting property tax cuts through rate reductions and working toward eliminating the school property tax in Texas,” Abbott said in a statement. “Special sessions will continue to focus on only property tax cuts until property tax cut legislation reaches my desk.”

Affirmative Action Overturned

The Supreme Court on Thursday struck down affirmative action in college admissions, bringing an end to affirmative action in higher education in a decision that will reverberate across campuses nationwide.

The court’s conservative majority overturned admissions plans at Harvard and the University of North Carolina, the nation’s oldest private and public colleges, respectively.

Chief Justice John Roberts said that for too long universities have “concluded, wrongly, that the touchstone of an individual’s identity is not challenges bested, skills built, or lessons learned but the color of their skin. Our constitutional history does not tolerate that choice.”

The vote was 6-3 in the North Carolina case and 6-2 in the Harvard case. Jackson sat out the Harvard case because she had been a member of an advisory governing board there.

The college admissions disputes are among several high-profile cases focused on race in America, and were weighed by the conservative-dominated, but most diverse court ever. Among the nine justices are four women, two Black people and a Latina.
