Ain't Life Wonderful

Doesn't it seem like the space between Thanksgiving and Christmas is getting shorter?

I mean I don't have anything against that "Holiday Feeling." I love it. But I just did that turkey day splurge at the dinner table with turkey and dressing with gravy all over it and mashed potatoes and so-o much eagle brand lemon pie with graham crust... you know the deal. Like in the old Alka Selzer commercial – I can't believe I ate the whole thing!

And now, I have to count down the days 'til I'm forced to do it all over again in a few weeks.

Yeh, I know, nobody forced me right? But I think women, who do all the cookin', i.e. my wife, are sensitive about these things and, if I didn't absolutely voraciously eat all that stuff...she would be crushed. So excuse me, I had to do it.

But, thanks to my being so sensitive to her feelings, I've gained a few pounds overnight. If it wasn't bad enough all I was faced with on Thanksgiving Day, I've had to smile and accept all those leftover dressing and spiral ham tasties that she's been serving up since then. You know what it's cost me? From a half to a pound a day since Thanksgiving according to my reckoning.

Boy! The sacrifices I make for her peace of mind!

Just kiddin' dear!

On a serious note dear readers, I hope all your kids 'n kin were home for Thanksgiving. And if not, I sure hope they're home for Christmas. As for me, I'm sure lookin' forward to it.

Remember, we're rootin' for ya. RW

Registering Livestock Brands

An article from the Texas Agrilife Extension Office reminds us that while branding every year is a tradition on most livestock operations, another tradition of sorts takes place with those branding marks — every 10 years they must be registered with the county clerk where they are used.

All brands must be reregistered in the county clerk's office beginning Aug. 31 2021 and you can register brands until February 28, 2022.

Pursuant to Texas Agriculture Code Section 144.044, every 10 years, all livestock and horse brands throughout the state expire. The current registrations expired Aug 31, and will require action before the end of February.

If a livestock owner uses brands, earmarks, tattoos or electronic devices to mark their cattle, hogs, sheep, goats or horses, they must register the brands with the county clerk, said Tiffany Dowell Lashmet, Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service agricultural law specialist, Amarillo.

"This is an important detail for brand holders not to overlook," Lashmet said.

Head to the county clerk's office

All livestock brands must be registered at the county clerk's office in every county where the owner has livestock, according to Texas Agriculture Code. The registration will require identifying the brand itself, along with the location where the brand or other identifying information is placed on the animal.

Brand holders will have a six-month period, through Feb. 28, to renew their brand registration in each county where they have livestock, Lashmet said. If they fail to renew their registration in that time frame, then the brand will essentially be up for grabs, and anyone will be able to select and register the brand in his or her name. (Cont'd on back)

The Blotter

Lampasas Police Dept. blotter for Saturday shows a reported disturbance in the 400 block of E. 7th St. at 7:53pm.

Lampasas Police Dept. blotter for Sunday shows the late morning arrests of the following persons all in the 800 block of 580E at 11:56am; John Ybarra, 47, for possession of a controlled substance penalty group 1/1-B (fentanyl) less than a gram and 5 Lampasas Municipal Warrants. Felix Ybarra, 50, of Lampasas for possession of a controlled substance penalty group 1-1B and 2 Lampasas Municipal Warrants. Ronnie Romo, 21, for possession of a controlled substance penalty group 1-1B less than a gram and 3 Lampasas Municipal Warrants, with one for failing to control speed, and two for theft of property. And John Lynn Mezger Jr., 36, of Lampasas for possession of a controlled substance, penalty group 1-1B, less than a gram. There was a reported disturbance in the 700 block of E. Ave G at 4:09pm and a harassment in the 400 block of E. 7th St. at 6:36pm. In the 500 block of Dawn's Peak, Victor Blomberg, 51, of Lampasas was arrested at 6:41pm for aggravated assault with a deadly weapon, family violence at 6:41pm.

The Lampasas County Sheriff's Dept. Blotter for the weekend shows Lometa with reports of suspicious activity and animal issues. Kempner saw civil matters, reports of suspicious activity, and medical calls. Out in the county there was an alarm call, accidents, a report of an abandoned vehicle and a shots fired call. Deputies went into Cove on medical calls, a reported disturbance, reports of suspicious activity and an accident

There may be different procedures for the renewal at different county clerk's offices, so brand holders should contact the applicable offices to find out the best way to complete the renewal of the registration. Fees for the renewal also vary by county, and more information can be obtained from county clerks across the state.

Once producers renew their brands, the brands will be in place until Aug. 30, 2031. The use of a brand or mark that is not registered with the county clerk will constitute a misdemeanor offense punishable by a fine up to $500, according to the Texas Agriculture Code.

Upcoming Caregiver Class

The Central Texas Area Agency on Aging and Texas A & M Agrilife are presenting a series of classes for caregivers in the area. The class is designed to help people master the tools to make a difficult task more manageable. The classes will be at the Lampasas County Annex conference room on Monday afternoons from 1-2:30pm on December 6th, 13th, and 20th and January 10th, 24th, and 31st. Call 254-770-2330 for more information or to register for the class.
